DEPARTMENTAL HEALTH AND SAFETY REQUIREMENTS

Safety Report
The Department of Materials Science & Engineering requires that all research personnel prepare a Departmental Safety Report. The guidelines for such a report are attached. Please follow them carefully. The reports are intended to aid you in addressing issues of lab safety before problems occur. This is intended to be a living document. Your initial safety report must be completed, signed by your supervisor, and turned in to the Departmental Office within 2 months of the start of your studies or employment here. The document should then be updated whenever a major change in your experimental program occurs.

Procedure
A concise safety report is to be prepared and submitted in typed form to the Chairman of the Department prior to the start of a research project and whenever there is a significant change in the nature of a research project (that is when the potential hazards change). The standard “Departmental Safety Report” face sheet should be attached to the front of the safety report. Before submission the researcher’s supervisor must approve the report.

If there is no significant change in a research project, the safety report must be reviewed and submitted on a yearly basis.

The Departmental Safety Committee and the Departmental Chairman will review each report.

Applicability
A safety report is to be prepared and submitted to the Chairman of the Departmental Safety Committee by each supervised researcher in the Department. The term “Supervised Research” includes: graduate students; undergraduate students; postdoctoral fellows; visiting scientist; research associates; research assistants; technicians.

Areas to Be Addressed
- Potential Hazards under Routine Operation. These are the day-to-day hazards not associated with an emergency.
- Laboratory Protective Devices in Use. For example: Fumehood; fire extinguisher (stating type and capacity rating); flammable gas detector; toxic gas monitor.
- Personal Protective Devices in Use. For example: safety glasses; air pack; respirator; gloves (specifying material type); lab coat; safety shoes; safety helmet; radiation monitoring badges.
- Other Protective Procedures in Use. An example is: medical monitoring (specifying type and frequency).
- Possible Emergencies. What types of accidents are likely to occur and what are their consequences. What are the types and quantities (if applicable) of the hazard? In other words, list a credible “worst-case” scenario.
- Procedures for Emergencies. For example: clean-up methods; neutralization procedures, evacuation plan.
Types of Hazard to Be Addressed

The main likely types of potential hazard encountered in the laboratory include but are not limited to:

- Fire / Explosion. List the flash point and the auto ignition temperature.
- Toxic. This category usually comprises chemicals. For chemical hazards a Manufacturer's Safety Data Sheet (MSDS) must be attached to the report.
- Radioactivity. List the acceptable exposure values.
- Electrical
- High Pressure
- Mechanical
- Falling Objects

Laboratory Safety

Everyone actively engaged in laboratory work is responsible for safety performance as part of the Internal Responsibility System. All laboratory personnel must meet the legal requirements of various environmental and health and safety statutes. It is expected that adherence to this manual is a good starting point for establishing an acceptable laboratory safety program.

Every person working or intending to work in a laboratory must read this document.

MORE ABOUT MANDATORY SAFETY COURSES

Job Hazard Analysis (JHA)

A component of the Workwell audit criteria requires McMaster to provide a documented job hazard analysis of main activities associated with each worker. A job hazard analysis is essential in clarifying the work to be done in conjunction with the hazards and controls that are associated with the activity. While reviewing a list of the main activities involved with each job, common hazards are identified. If a hazard cannot be eliminated it needs to be minimized before the job is performed. Hazards can be minimized by implementing controls such as personal protective equipment, written procedures or training.

Workers, Students, Visitors and Volunteer shall participate in safety orientation and training courses as required by their JHA listed at http://www.mcmaster.ca/workwell/form/jha_form.jsp

The supervisor and employee should review each of the task forms and sign the summary page. A summary page is kept in the worker’s departmental file and a copy must also be sent to EOHSS.
